The Four Pillars...

Temple of She Yoni Massage Practitioner Training is based on four key elements. Each playing an important role in making this training gold standard.

These four elements foster a wholistic approach, not only for your clients but also for you as a practitioner. A gold standard in training requires you to be competent across all areas, revolutionising the standard for practitioners of sexual bodywork.

- Personal Development - Harbouring great self-responsibility is key to achieving competence in this training. Without realising and addressing personal fears and restrictions, you are limited in how you can serve your clients.

About Temple Of She Yoni Massage Practitioner Training

Temple Of She YMPT is wholisitic method of Yoni Massage. This means it is so much more than physical massage with a range of techniques.

You will learn how to take yourself and your client into the highest vibration possible. Working from this state means all that takes place is generated for your and your client's highest good only.

By committing to this training, you are saying yes to going back into the temple, going back to learn the ancient ways of the priestess who initiated young men and women into their sexual power. Remembering the reverence that women are worthy of, and stepping into service to provide that once more.

With comprehensive anatomy and physiology training, understanding of the role of fear and specific tools and techniques to shift this, you will be trained to give your client a lasting experience that creates permanent change in their lives.

In order to be competent as a Temple Of She Yoni Massage Practitioner, you need to commit to high ethical standards. Understanding the vulnerability and power your clients are stepping into and providing adequate support for this. You will learn how to scaffold your clients outside of the physical massage session, the importance of language, consent, physical space and hygiene.

We are revolutionising an unregulated industry. You are committing to stepping into your queendom, being visible and reinstating the power of the Divine Feminine.

This Training is NOT For You If ...

- You are not ready to step into your power. If you are not willing to do what it takes to move your own fear patterns and addictions to serve the greater feminine.
- You are already doing lots of training programs or courses. This training requires a high level commitment, both in time and soul. This is comprehensive modality training that should only be taken on with the desire to become a practitioner.
- You can not commit to travelling internationally for the retreat intensive component.
- Sexuality scares you, so much so that you are not willing to explore your own or other peoples.
- You are looking for sex, pornography or any sexual gratification directly from others.
- You are not open to spiritual practices such as meditation or regular practice of any kind.
- You are not willing. Not willing to get uncomfortable, be faced with the truth of your fear stories and dive deep into who you are as a woman.
- You do not want to become a maven of women's sexuality and true power.
- You are a man. This training is only available to women.
- You do not want to place your fingers inside another woman's vagina.

Raising the Standard in an Unregulated Industry

Tantra, conscious sex and sexual bodywork is very much an unregulated industry. There are a few incredible ethical forces out there pushing forward to create a new standard in this industry, and Temple Of She is going to lead the way.

The potency of this work is undeniable, as is the vulnerability. It is not ok to do a weekend or even a week long course and call yourself a Practitioner. Holding space for women in this way requires a gold standard in training, ethics and morals. Not to mention intention.

This work requires regulation, clear ethical standards, safety for clients and practitioners. For this reason this training is in the process of being certified with the International Institute for Complementary Therapies (IICT). This requires a yearly insurance fee, which provides you as the practitioner safety in the sexual body working industry. As well as giving your clients the upmost reassurance they are in safe hands.

Amy Towle

Amy Towle is the creator of Temple of She, a space only for the Willing Woman.

Amy supports women to be practitioners in the revolution of the feminine. As a Yoni Massage Practitioner and trainer, Certified Intuitive Guide and Registered Midwife, Amy has over a decade of experience working with women in powerful, yet vulnerable self-exploration.

After experiencing a 21st Century witch hunt within midwifery, Amy was compelled to go within, deeper to find out who she really was as a woman. Amy was then driven to explore the untapped power women hold in their pussies. Women hold a key they are terrified to access, that key unlocks their power, full presence, and pleasure!

Amy loves to push the envelope, get deep and dirty into the taboos of our world. She holds your hand while pushing you to get uncomfortable, she'll hold the mirror while you look at your vulva, and she will also give you one of the best hugs you've ever had.
